While many jobs in the Coach factory require the use of special machinery, turning edges for our Water Buffalo Calfskin wallets and accessories is a process we trust exclusively to the human hand.

After applying glue, our craftsmen use hand tools to fold the leather and create crisp, clean edges and neatly rounded corners. Only then do we sew the folded edges for the finishing touch.

This attention to detail insures that every Coach wallet or accessory will retain its character, strength and beauty for many years.
